A TRIDENT WEDDING

An Indian wedding is a celebration of many moments.

Each one has its own pace, emotion and importance. Some are planned down to the last detail. Some, quite wonderfully, take their own course. What matters is that every part is handled with care, so you can be present for all of it.

We put in every effort, so the wedding feels effortless for you and your loved ones.

At Trident, Agra, the setting gives every celebration room to breathe.

Close to the Taj Mahal, the hotel brings together landscaped gardens, open lawns, courtyards and indoor venues that work well across functions. Each space has its own purpose and each moment has the support it needs.

We make sure the experience holds together from start to finish. Timings are watched, details are managed and plans stay on course, even when the baraat has its own ideas about time.

That is what makes a wedding feel easy. There is plenty to do and it is all being taken care of.

EVERY MOMENT, RIGHT ON CUE.

Every function asks for something different.

A haldi needs daylight and openness, a sangeet needs energy and sound, the wedding ceremony needs focus and ease, and the reception needs room for everyone to come together. Each celebration finds a setting that suits it, moving from intimate indoor gatherings to larger outdoor functions without guests feeling the shift.

The plans stay in place, while you stay in the celebration.

LESS PLANNING. MORE CELEBRATING.

You focus on the celebrations. Let us handle the rest.

We bring rooms, venues, food, service and coordination together so every function has what it needs. From arrivals and check-ins to the flow of events, we look after every detail with care, including the ones that, somehow, always appear at the last minute.

If you need support beyond the hotel, we are happy to suggest trusted local partners, including planners, photographers and decorators. We currently do not work with empanelled vendors, but we can guide you towards partners who regularly work with us.

REST BETWEEN THE REVELRY

Between two celebrations, everyone needs a moment to pause.

Our rooms and suites give your guests a calm place to return to after the day's events. A place to rest, get ready, gather themselves and step back into the celebrations refreshed.

Because even the most enthusiastic wedding guest needs a good night's sleep eventually.

For weddings at Trident, Agra, a minimum buyout of 80 rooms is required.

THE WORD SPREADS ABOUT THIS SPREAD

At a wedding, food gives every event its flavour. It is the breakfast before the haldi, the lunch everyone returns to, the dinner that stretches into conversation and the late-night bites guests are very grateful for.

Our chefs create menus across Indian and international cuisines, tailored to the way you want each event to feel. The focus is on familiar flavours, generous spreads, well-timed service and meals that feel considered from start to finish.

Because guests may forget the schedule, but they rarely forget a good meal.

AGRA, BEYOND THE CELEBRATIONS

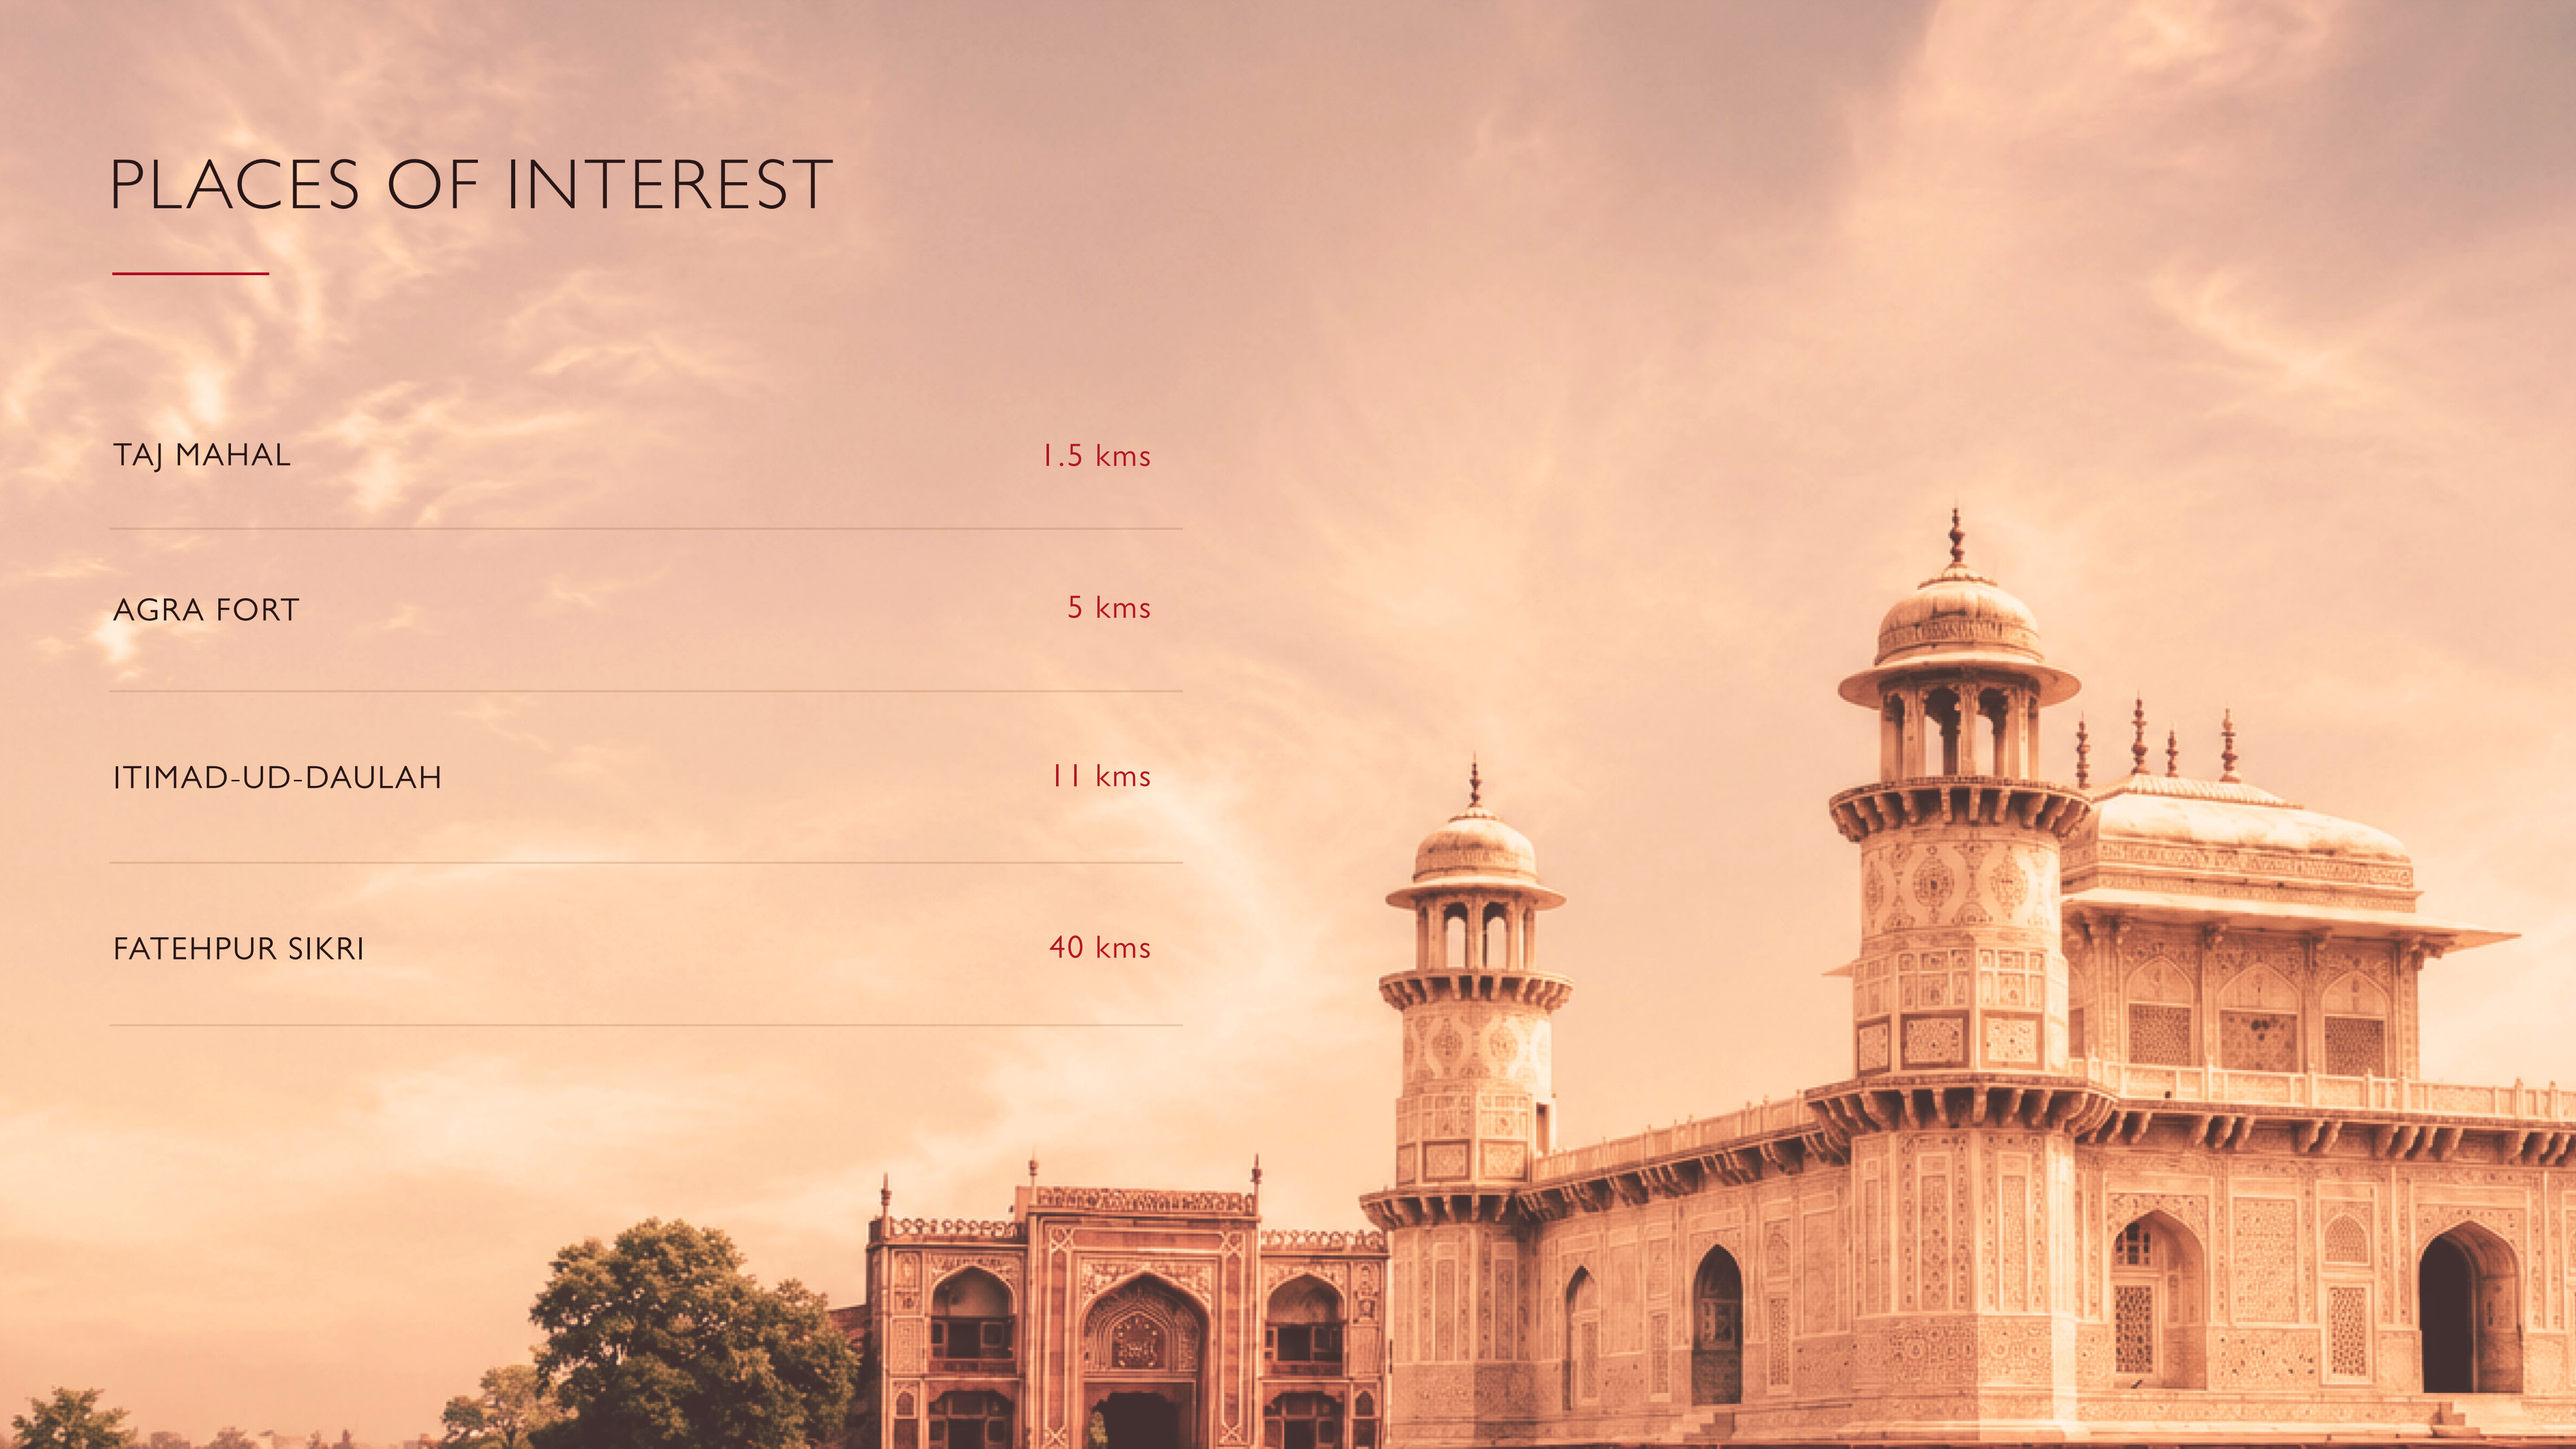

There is more to Agra than the wedding itinerary. Guests can visit the Taj Mahal, explore Agra Fort, spend time at Itimad-ud-Daulah or plan an excursion to Fatehpur Sikri. We curate and arrange these experiences for you, so guests can see a little more of Agra and still be back in time for the next big moment.

We take care of all the planning, so time spent beyond the hotel feels just as easy.
